

PROMINENT MAN DEAD.

John T. Waterhouse Expired Yesterday.

HEART FAILURE WAS THE CAUSE.

Over-worked During the Cholera Siege. Ill Several Weeks—Died Without a Struggle—Prominent in Business and Church Circles—Funeral Today.

John T. Waterhouse died of heart failure at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his residence on Wylie street.

Mr. Waterhouse has been suffering from a complication of diseases for several months and several times he has been confined to his house in consequence. During the cholera siege Mr. Waterhouse was very active in the affairs of the Board of Health and overexerted himself in the performance of his duties as a member of the Board of Health and never seemed to recover his strength.

A few weeks ago he suffered an attack of stomach trouble which confined him to his bed and his condition fluctuated between better and worse until yesterday. In the meantime he had contracted a bad cold, which developed into congestion of the lungs. Then he was attacked with rheumatism of the heart and his death was directly due to heart failure.

Sunday night was the best night he had experienced for weeks, and yesterday he told his family he felt much better. His brother called as usual in the morning and noted at the marked improvement in him.

In the afternoon, but a moment before he expired, he told the man who was in the room to step outside, and then addressed Mrs. Waterhouse, saying: "Sit down here by the bed where I can see you. I feel faint." A moment later, like the flickering of a candle, his life went out. John T. Waterhouse, the prosperous merchant, was dead.

The deceased leaves a widow and eight children. Fred, the oldest son, is cashier in his father's store; Ernest is studying medicine in the College of Physicians in New York; John is at Princeton College, from which institution he will graduate in June, and George is a junior in the same college. The four daughters are at home, the youngest attending Punahou.

Mr. Waterhouse was born in Tasmania July 17, 1841, and came here with his parents when nine years of age. He was given an education in the Punahou school from which place he graduated. Directly his education was finished he entered his father's mercantile house as clerk.

In 1871 feeling the necessity for an active man to watch the markets in England, the deceased was prevailed upon by his father to proceed to London and fill the post of resident buyer in that city. He remained there for eighteen months and then returned to Honolulu and entered into active business with his brother Henry, shortly after succeeding their father in the conduct of their large business interests.

For twenty years, it may be said, John T. Waterhouse was one of the leading business men in Honolulu. He has been connected with the Board of Health for a longer period than any other member, and during W. O. Smith's absence has acted as president of that body.

He was superintendent of the Central Union Sabbath school for many years, was a member of the choir committee for at least twenty years, and at the time of his death was a deacon of the church. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Queen's Hospital, the Sailors' Home, and during the reign of Kalaukaua was a member of the Privy Council of State.

No one in Honolulu had a greater reputation for integrity and honesty of purpose, in business, official or private life, than Mr. Waterhouse. He had the respect and esteem of every one with whom he came in contact, from the business man of capital and influence to men in the most humble walks of life.

He was devoted to the interests of Central Union church and was always consulted in matters concerning the welfare of that institu-

W. W. DIMOND.

In a climate like this, where summer reigns twelve months in the calendar year and thirteen during the dry season, there are two articles that are at once useful. A refrigerator and an ice cream freezer.

In the selection of either a certain amount of care must be exercised in order to keep from being gulled. A good plan is to take the record of a refrigerator, learn what your friends who are using it think about it. See if there is economy of ice and beauty in the appearance of it and then learn about the parts that are necessary to be cleaned. Find out these things and then buy your refrigerator. We may be able to assist you a little, because we have made refrigerators a study. In all of our looking around we found nothing to equal the Improved Gurney; remember we say improved, and it embodies every point we have mentioned. It is economical of ice and we will prove this by having a test with any other dealer selling refrigerators for any donation to a charitable institution that may be agreed upon. It is the easiest cleaned, every part being so arranged that it may be taken out and washed. It is lined with mineral wool, the best non-conductor of heat known. They are made of hard wood and handsomely carved and polished.

These refrigerators are cheaper than common refrigerator for two reasons: they don't cost so much money and they will last longer. We have all sizes and styles.

FILTERS.

The report of the executive officer of the Board of Health relative to the condition of the Nuuanu reservoirs is suggestive of something dangerous to health. It also suggests filters, good filters, something that will effectually separate the water from mud and filth. Nature has done much toward providing the people with necessities; it has also done a little toward securing for the people, luxuries. In some localities a filter is a luxury, in others, Honolulu for instance, it is a necessity, but the natural filters that are sold have been much improved by the ingenuity of man.

Charcoal is admitted to be the most thorough purifying agent known, consequently Messrs. Slack & Brownlow selected it for use in the manufacture of their filters. And we are the agents for this particular brand of filter in Honolulu, a sufficient guarantee, by the way, of the character of the article.

The latest invoices show three different styles of the S. & B. Filters and these we have in stock, just opened them, in fact, and we want your attention.

No. 1, (we will call it No. 1) is fitted with a movable plate, so that when necessary, the carbon may be taken out and washed. It has also a movable lining allowing access to every part of the interior, which may be kept perfectly sweet and clean.

No. 2 and 3 are provided with the same conveniences for cleaning as the other, but they have the important addition that every part, including the pure water chamber, is accessible, giving them all the requirements of a "Perfect Filter."

The price of the S. & B. filter is below the others. You should have one, because it is a necessity.
